Stefan Splitter is new Purchasing Manager at ebro® Electronic ebro® Electronic, the measuring instrument specialists from Ingolstadt, have appointed Stefan Splitter, MBA, (31) as new Purchasing Manager starting August 1st, 2008.

Stefan Splitter familiarized himself with materials logistics during his years of service in the German Army and took his degree in Business Administration at the Bundeswehrhochschule in Munich. Then he earned an MBA at the University of St. Gallen. After several years in Purchasing at Karstadt/Quelle in the areas non-trading goods and fleet management, he was subsequently involved in international raw materials procurement.

At ebro®, he is taking on responsibility for all raw materials purchasing, for optimizing the supply chain and for negotiations with international suppliers.

“I am pleased to have won such a versatile and dedicated purchasing professional. In his new position, he will play a significant role in further improving our technically innovative measuring devices. I wish Stefan Splitter much success for his challenging new task,” says Wolfgang Klün, ebro’s Managing Director.

In 2008, ebro® is celebrating its 40th company anniversary. The company has been developing and manufacturing measuring instruments at the Ingolstadt site in Bavaria since 1976 and is well known as a manufacturer of innovative, portable measuring devices for temperature, pressure, humidity, pH and other measurands. Over 100 distributors worldwide serve the markets food, pharmacy, medicine, chemistry and industry.
